Mission STATEMENT

Employee training is an essential component in achieving success in any organization and is an important piece of CoServ's Commitment to Employees. Our purpose is to provide Employees with learning and development opportunities. CoServ is fortunate to have several resources from which to establish a meaningful, robust, and effective training program.

CoServ University provides professional and personal development training opportunities. Courses are offered multiple times to maximize participation and accommodate work schedules.

Training EXPECTATIONS

RESPECT

Be respectful of your time, the instructor's time, and the other Employees' time. This is time to dedicate to learning and an opportunity to grow personally and professionally. Ensure the course topic is a good fit for you as well as your work schedule. Show up on time and complete all required assignments before and after the course.

CELL PHONE USE

When attending training, please make sure your cell phone is on silent and put away. If you must respond to a text, call or email, please politely excuse yourself.

COMPUTER USE

Courses taking place in a computer lab must follow the Information Security Handbook. The expectation when using a computer in the lab (or a laptop) is to follow along with the course or to take notes. If you must respond to an email or complete a task for work, please excuse yourself or do so on break.

APPLY SKILLS

The goal of training is to learn a new skill and apply it. Continue working and improving on the skills you learn in a course to receive the most benefit.

VIRTUAL LEARNING

Treat the virtual classroom like an in-person classroom. Be attentive and remove all distractions. Participate by sharing your video and using the chat. Remain on mute unless told otherwise to eliminate background noise.

COURSE SELECTION

Select courses that interest you and that you can commit to attending. Discuss your course selections with your supervisor. Courses have a maximum number of attendees. If a course is full, select another course date.

CREDIT

Employees can track training hours for their participation in professional, industry-related conferences, webinars, etc. CoServ can capture meeting-participation data. To receive hours for participation, when you complete a Travel and Training Request Form, fill out the section for training hours. These hours do not count toward your annual CoServ U Requirements.

- Tuesday, 2/25 9-11am
- Wednesday, 5/14, 1-3pm
- Thursday, 9/25, 9-11am
- Tuesday, 11/4, 1-3pm

If a person has been in the workforce long enough, they have experienced positional fatigue, frustration and irritation with colleagues, negativity and cynicism, and possibly even inefficacy in their work. It's called burnout, and no one is immune. Sadly, burnout can lead to feelings of depression, anxiety, and disengagement in the individual, and turnover, organizational upheaval, relational issues, and subpar work product in the workplace. When burnout is active in a workplace, everyone is negatively impacted by it.

Key takeaways: Preventing burnout, enhancing well-being, reducing turnover, and improving relationships.

Ashley Smalley

- Tuesday, 2/25 1-3pm
- Wednesday, 5/14, 9-11am
- Thursday, 9/25, 1-3pm
- Tuesday, 11/4, 9-11am

Leadership expert and best-selling author John Maxwell once said, "Leadership is influence. Nothing more, nothing less." Every person has a great deal of personal influence on the people around them, and how we use that influence determines the impact we will have on our team and its effectiveness. It is often mistakenly assumed that if we do not hold a leadership position, we cannot affect change around us. That idea causes apathy, frustration, and a skirting of responsibility.

Key takeaways: Empowering personal impact, fostering responsibility, and driving team effectiveness.

Leading with Laughter

Ashley Smalley 3/25/2025	Laughter offers both physical and mental benefits, yet adults often don't laugh enough during the day, especially in the workplace. While we typically share laughter in personal settings, leaders who incorporate humor can boost team connectedness, creativity, and productivity. Creating a humorous work environment not only enhances organizational effectiveness but also makes the workplace more enjoyable. This session is for leaders who want their teams to have fun while improving performance.

Empowering Teams through Servant Leadership

Ryan Stafford 6/4/2025	Servant leadership is a powerful approach that emphasizes the importance of prioritizing the needs of team members to create a supportive and engaging work environment. This concept is illustrated through the innovative idea of the upside-down organizational chart, which places leaders at the bottom to serve and uplift their Employees at the top, effectively shifting traditional power dynamics. Additionally, effective team leadership hinges on three essential elements: cultivating trust, encouraging collaboration, and promoting accountability. By focusing on these components, leaders can foster a productive and harmonious team dynamic that ultimately leads to collective success.

Navigating Growth from a Leader's Viewpoint

Jantzen Louder 8/19/2025	As leaders, we have a vital responsibility to foster growth in our teams. This course focuses on nurturing the potential of our team members through various methodologies and strategies. We'll provide practical ideas for daily interactions that empower leaders to inspire and uplift their teams effectively.

Inspiring Ownership and Results

Ryan Stafford 10/22/2025	In today's work environment, leading with accountability is essential for fostering ownership and achieving results. Organizations should promote a culture of quick learning, encouraging teams to view challenges as growth opportunities. This culture involves support, coaching, and tough conversations that align individual contributions with organizational goals. By integrating these elements, leaders can create an environment where continuous learning and accountability enhance performance and collective success.
